1. Welcome and Introduction to BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies.

1.1 Welcome

Welcome to the BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies programme, awarded by the University of Plymouth. It is the Level 6 top-up bachelor's degree for students who have already attained a Level 5 qualification such as a Foundation Degree or Level 5 Diploma delivered at the University Centre South Devon (UCSD), or from another higher education provider. We are delighted that you have chosen to top-up your Level 5 qualification to a Bachelors Honours Degree with us. As students with diverse qualifications and experience working with children and young people, you will be supported to achieve your degree and progress into further study or your chosen career.

Highlights of the BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies programme

- The programme has been designed with local employers in education, and social, community and youth settings to provide opportunities for you to extend and apply your existing knowledge and experience ready for graduate level employment<sup>1</sup> or further study.
- You will be studying in small groups (usually between 15-20 students) alongside peers from a range of academic and practice backgrounds. We will encourage you to work together and share your experiences to develop academic skills, personal and professional attributes, and work-ready skills and behaviours.
- The University Centre prides itself on excellent teaching, learning and assessment practices. The teaching team are experienced teachers with professional experience in all sections of education, and the voluntary and public sectors. We also maintain our professional practice and currency through voluntary work and engagement with employers so you can be sure your course is up to date.
- The teaching and dissertation supervisor team are all involved in higher academic study and/or research. We recently jointly wrote a textbook to support our students

1.3 Personal Tutor

Your personal tutor's role is to support your personal and professional development, develop your academic skills, manage student expectations, achieve positive student-staff communications, provide pastoral support and signposting, and monitor your wellbeing. They should be your first port of call for advice and/or direction for further support on academic or pastoral matters.

Your personal tutor will be Dr Issy Hallam.

Issy is a psychologist by background but has been working in education for over fifteen years, in early years, primary, special and higher education. She has post-graduate qualifications in teaching post-16 students, supporting learners with social, emotional and mental health difficulties, educational research and development studies. Her PhD research investigated the role of personal tutoring in the psychology of student persistence.

In addition to her teaching and programme leadership responsibilities, Issy works as the UCSD Student Development and Tutorial manager and is based in the Student Support Hub.

1.4 Tutoring at UCSD

UCSD's aim is to facilitate and promote positive student engagement in learning, wellbeing, academic success, and progression. This is coordinated through an integrated tutorial model:

1. Personal and pastoral tutoring to monitor students' wellbeing and support their personal development
2. An academic tutoring curriculum to support in the development of academic and employability skills and monitor your academic and professional progress

3. Professional services including the Student Support Hub team, library services, employability, academic standards and quality, and the University of Plymouth Student's Union for students on UoP programmes.

The integrated tutorial model ensures all students have a personal tutor and scheduled weekly group and/or one-to-one Tutorials, and can access professional study skills, wellbeing, disability and employability guidance from the HE Student Support Hub.

Your personal tutor's role is to support your personal and professional development, develop your academic skills, manage student expectations, achieve positive student-staff communications, provide pastoral support and signposting, and monitor your wellbeing. They should be your first port of call for advice and/or direction for further support on academic or pastoral matters. However, your tutor may refer you to members of the Student Support Hub to provide specialist advice and information. See section Student Support Hub below for more information.

The tutorial and personal development curriculum is tailored for your programme including consideration of the size of programme, the hours that you are studying and the level of your programme. Details will be provided by your personal tutor.

More information about the UCSD tutorial commitment and the Learning Outcomes covered by the tutorial and personal development curriculum at Level 4 and above are available on the UCSD website at <https://www.ucsd.ac.uk/student-life/support/tutorial/>

1.6 Preparing for your programme

At UCSD, we understand that Level 6 Bachelors degree level study is a big step up from previous studies. To help prepare you for the degree we recommend engaging with preparatory activities. Each year UCSD organise workshops, with a focus on supporting you to develop your research and writing skills, alongside academic techniques.

For more information on the workshops and resources available, please visit our website: <https://www.ucsd.ac.uk/the-first-year-at-university/>.

The Student Support Hub is available throughout the duration of your programme and offers a range of services, acting as a first port of call for academic, study, wellbeing, disability, fees/funding, employability and progression support. When progressing to the next level of study of your higher education, there are also workshops and activities available to support you with progressing your graduate skills.

Preparatory reading is a great way to develop your knowledge and skills to be ready for the next level of study in higher education. Please see below some recommended reading to undertake prior to the start of your course:

Preparatory activities and reading

If you are joining the BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies as a full-time or year-one part-time student, or re-joining us as a second year part-time student, the most important preparation you can make is to focus on your dissertation. We suggest you do the following:

- Purchase and read the dissertation textbook:

Greetham, B. (2019). How to write your undergraduate dissertation. London: Red Globe Press

(Earlier editions of this text are available cheaply online)

- Consider the broad topic areas that you are interested in within the field of children and young people.
- Do some reading about the topic areas you are interested in – book chapters are a useful starting place but then read some online research journal articles about the topic.
- Identify what you don't know about the topic but would like to find out. This is known as the research question. Eventually, your research question should be specific, but at this stage have several potential lines of enquiry that you can discuss with the team in September.
- Attend the Induction and Dissertation workshop sessions in September to discuss your idea. Ideally you will have two or three ideas that you have read some research about, and identified what you want know more about.
- If you want to discuss your ideas before September, please contact Issy or Ezekiel on issyhallam@southdevon.ac.uk or ezekielchattell@southdevon.ac.uk

Additional preparation

- Purchase and read the study skills textbook:

Turns, T. and Sinfield, S. (2022). Essential Study Skills: The Complete Guide to Success at University. London: Sage.

(Earlier editions of this text are available cheaply online)

- Undertake the practical activities in the book to practice reading and writing for university study.
- Attend the Stepping up to HE workshops in the summer before your course starts.
- Book an appointment with the HE Study team at UCSD before you commence your course so that you can review your skills and develop some good study habits before you start.

1.7 Curriculum design principles

Programme Rationale

The BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies programme is a Level 6 top-up degree for students who have successfully achieved a Level 5 qualification in a related subject, for example UCSD's FdA Education and Childhood, FdA Working with Children, Young People and Families or Diploma in Education and Training, or a similar programme from another university. The programme aims to facilitate your professional and academic development, preparing you for a career working with children and/or young people in education, social care, youth or community work. You will develop the critical thinking and reflection skills, alongside the subject knowledge.

Context

The curriculum of the BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies has been designed to build on and extend your Level 4/5 studies and work experience with children and young people. Although you do not have to be in practice during the programme, you must have at least one-year of experience working or volunteering in education, social, youth or community work. You will draw on this experience throughout your classroom learning and assessments. However, please note this is not a JNC (Joint Negotiating Council) National Youth Agency accredited programme.

The programme teaching team are part of the wider Children and Young People curriculum team at South Devon College encompassing higher education degree courses in FdA Education and Childhood, FdA Working with Children, Young People and Families, FdA Youth Justice, and BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies. We work in partnership with our South Devon College further education colleagues delivering a range of Level 1, 2 and 3 Children and Young People courses, and our colleagues teaching social science courses from Levels 1 to 6.

The Children and Young People curriculum team works with employers across the Torbay and south Devon area to facilitate student placements, apprenticeships and curriculum development. Feedback from employers and students' mentors about the curriculum is gathered through individual meetings during the academic year and events such as the Children and Young People Conference held during Research Showcase in May each year.

This employers' feedback, together with students' feedback and academic sector developments identified by teaching staff, help to inform and develop the programme curriculum, assessments and enrichment activities.

Content

The BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies programme consists of four 20 credit modules, one 40 credit module to complete your dissertation (for new part-time students from 2023/24 the dissertation is split into two 20 credit modules), and the tutorial programme to support your academic and professional development. The sequencing of your programme allows you to develop the knowledge, skills and behaviours ready for graduate employment with children and young people. Although the modules stand-alone, the knowledge and understanding you develop within the modules will build as you progress through the programme and you will be able to apply it to your future module learning and assessments.

The Research Dissertation module involves independent primary or secondary data collection on a topic of your choice, negotiated with your dissertation supervisor. Any previous research experience you have gained through employment, voluntary work or your earlier studies will be valuable in helping you to plan and undertake your dissertation. However, the preparatory activities outlined in section 1.6, pre-programme activities (either as part of your Stepping Up to Level 6 within your Foundation Degree, or direct-entry student induction in September), module teaching for Research Dissertation and the support of your dissertation supervisor will give you all the knowledge and skills you need to successfully undertake your research project and write up your dissertation.

1.8 Teaching and Learning Strategy

The BA (Hon) Childhood and Youth Studies (top-up) programme is designed to be delivered with weekly face-to-face scheduled learning activities, asynchronistic learning opportunities and resources on our online learning platforms, guided independent learning in preparation for schedule learning activities, and independent study towards assessments. Students can access their timetables on OnTrack and SDConnect.

Notification of amendments will be issued via Moodle/email/MS Teams. Modes of delivery will include:

Scheduled Activities	Comments/Additional Information (briefly explain activities, including formative assessment opportunities)
Lectures	At UCSD, lectures describe classroom teaching and are used to introduce the key concepts and issues using interactive teaching and learning methods.
Seminars	Seminars provide the opportunity for students to engage in deeper discussion and exploration of a particular topic following a lecture. Seminars are often integrated into classroom teaching following or within lectures.
Tutorials	One-to-one tutorials are used for draft assessment feedback. You will have one draft tutorial for each assessment.
Guided distance learning activities	Students are expected to prepare for scheduled learning activities by undertaking pre-reading, flipped learning activities or other guided distance learning activities.
Guided independent study	Students are provided with a comprehensive reading list and other resources via Moodle and MS Teams to support independent learning and work towards assessment.

The teaching and learning strategy builds on the UCSD Teaching, Learning and Scholarship Policy and South Devon College Teaching and Learning Framework. The framework is underpinned by five core principles: the evidence-informed teacher, the evidence-informed learner, the ambitious and inclusive curriculum, the responsive teacher, and the confidence and employable learner.

As evidence-informed teachers, our practice is based on research applying cognitive psychology in the classroom (Rosenshine, 2012), to create learning cultures where students are secure in the key concepts, skills and behaviours. In practice, our schemes of learning are designed to embed daily review, introducing new topic in small steps, using probing questions, offering guided practice, scaffolding new skills development, and opportunities for independent practice and regularly reviews.

We support our students to be evidence-informed learners by prompting the development of study and academic skills, through scaffolding of skills and guided practice in the classroom, and study skills support from the dedicated HE Study team at the University Centre. We encourage students to learn the metacognitive skills to reflect on their learning, gather feedback, plan and apply strategies for their learning to promote motivation and persistence in their studies.

The ambitious and inclusive curriculum is designed in response to the needs of our diverse student population, employers and the local community. The modules and assessments allow students to extend their prior knowledge and experience, explore new and emerging topics, and investigate in depth an area of academic and/or professional interest. Creating a flexible and holistic curriculum allows a degree of personalisation for students. Inclusive teaching and learning practices, and the importance of our personal development programme embedded within the tutorial curriculum are designed to enable all students to thrive in their chosen area and develop their employability.

As responsive teachers, we seek to create a learning culture that empowers staff to deliver a curriculum that is student-centred and responsive to prior knowledge, skills and behaviours, and the progress made by individual students. Collaborative learning and group work are incorporated into schemes of learning, enabling students to learn from and with their peers, and practice their thinking for formative feedback.

The final element of the teaching and learning framework champions the need for students to develop confidence, resilience, and independence. Although there is no requirement for students to be in practice, or on a placement, during the BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies, it is anticipated that most students will be or have been in recent practice. Therefore, students will be able to apply their developing knowledge and understanding in their practice, and draw on this experience to support their learning and assessments. Alongside this professional experience, students will be supported to explore alternative and advanced career paths through the tutorial curriculum and module teaching. The tutorial curriculum also includes opportunities for students to recognise and value their developing employability skills including digital skills, citizenship, enterprise, professional behaviours, and networking.

Scheduled learning activities in the classroom are supplemented with online learning opportunities on Moodle and MS Teams. Teaching resources are available to students on Moodle at least 48 hours in advance of lessons, with supplemental reading and audio-visual resources to enable deeper exploration of topics. UCSD uses MS Teams as our online collaboration tool, with students able to interact with their peers and module leader on the chat function, scheduled learning activities recorded and transcribed within the module channels, and module leaders able to give summaries, notices and remind students in an asynchronistic manner. In addition to scheduled learning activities, students are expected to undertake considerable self-directed learning to prepare for classroom seminars and in preparation for assessments.

1.9 Research and employment-informed teaching and learning

UCSD supports academic teaching staff to develop their subject knowledge, professional practice and keep currency in their academic field through investment in continuous professional development through a variety of mechanisms.

All the teaching and dissertation supervision team are involved in professional development to support their teaching practice, subject knowledge development and academic skills. Everyone is a qualified teacher, most specialising in teaching adults, and all engage in the college's continuous professional development to improve and develop teaching practice in-line with the evidence-informed teacher programme. Several of us are involved in the British Psychological Society's Division of Academics, Researchers and Teachers of Psychology, gaining valuable insights from across the UK higher education sector about improving our pedagogy in the subject area.

Everyone undertakes numerous research and scholarly activities each academic year to maintain currency in our academic field and advance our own academic skills. This includes undertaking academic study for higher qualifications, attending and presenting at conferences, taking short vocational course such as mental health or Forest School, writing and publishing academic research, and collaboratively writing text books. Our first book, 'Challenges in early years and primary education: Employing critical thinking skills during turbulent times', edited by Estelle Tarry, was published in 2022. We are currently writing a follow-up text.

As university lecturers in college Higher Education, we are all dual professionals, having worked for many years in the sector we teach about. Members of the team have worked as teachers and support staff in early years, primary, secondary and special schools. We have specialists in children's mental health and wellbeing, safeguarding, early years care, and community and social care, as well members of the team who have work in the police, social services and the voluntary sector. We bring this knowledge and experience into our classroom teaching. We also maintain currency in our sector through employer liaison and engagement activities such as our annual conference, working with employers and placement mentors, and volunteering as school governors.

The depth of research, scholarly activity and employment-related engagement that the team undertake is a particular strength of the programme. We bring all this into the classroom, ensuring your teaching and learning experience is excellent.

1.10 Resources to support outstanding teaching and learning

UCSD provides a wide range of specific resources available to students. It is the intention that these resources help developed students' academic ability through a high-quality experience. Students will also benefit from the development of graduate and employability skills, so they are able to succeed in and beyond higher education. The University Centre campus resources include dedicated HE teaching spaces in the UCSD building, a campus wide wireless network, free access to Microsoft 365 whilst enrolled on your programme and a library with over 25,000 books, newspapers, magazines and eBooks and e-journals, such as the SAGE premier collection. Within your module guides you will be provided with a reading list that you will be able to undertake additional and further reading to support your learning.

As a UCSD student you will have access to the following resources:

- Microsoft Office applications and OneDrive via your southdevon.ac.uk account
- MS Teams for online learning and communication with your peers and teaching team
- Moodle, South Devon College and the University Centre's virtual learning environment

- The South Devon College Library in the main college building. The library hosts thousands of hard copy textbooks.
- The South Devon College online library, via Moodle, which hosts thousands of ebooks and online journals specifically selected for courses related to children and young people.
- The University of Plymouth online library, Primo, which hosts hundreds of thousands of ebooks and online journals.

You will be issued with a reading list of textbooks and additional reading for each module, you do not have to purchase the books as they are available in the South Devon College and/or Primo library as either hardcopy textbooks or ebooks. If you wish to purchase any of the textbooks recommended, you can often get earlier editions of the books cheaper from online shops.

1.11 Assessment and feedback strategy

Assessment of your learning is an essential part of attaining your qualification. Your assessments will be design in accordance with the UCSD Assessment Policy <https://www.ucsd.ac.uk/student-life/essential-information/academic-regulations-and-procedures-and-policies/> and the assessment guidance on the UCSD website <https://www.ucsd.ac.uk/student-life/support/assessment-guidance/>

Your module leaders will support you to develop the skills to succeed in your assessments. But you can also use the self-directed guidance on <https://www.ucsd.ac.uk/student-life/support/assessment-guidance/> and receive one-to-one support from the HE Study team by contacting HEstudy@southdevon.ac.uk

Your assessment timetable will be available on Moodle at the start of your course. There are broadly three types of assessment and feedback at UCSD:

- Formative assessment and feedback opportunities are embedded into module teaching and assessment for learning. This means your teachers will be continuously assessing you learning progress towards the module's learning outcomes and giving you verbal feedback, for example in answers to questions, and in response to group activities and your assessment plans.

- Draft assessment and feedback are a set time within your module when you can submit a draft version of your assessment for formal feedback. The feedback could be verbal and/or written feedback.
- Summative assessment and feedback are the final stages of the assessment cycle. You will formally submit your final assessment task, and receive summative developmental feedback and a grade for the task within 20-working-days.

Assessment within the BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies

Assessments are designed to enable students to meet the learning outcomes of modules. Assessment of learning outcomes is guided by the University of Plymouth and UCSD assessment policies and affords students the opportunity to undertake a range of different summative tasks including policy reviews, case studies, problem solving activities, articles, research reports, literature reviews and practical assessments including presentations and debates throughout their programme of study. All modules require an overall pass mark of 40%. Assessment briefs are published as part of the module guides ahead of the commencement of module teaching. Each assessment brief outlines how student can meet the learning outcomes through the assessment task, including a breakdown of what is expected, the marking criteria for the assessment task and the generic grading criteria for Level 6.

There is a diverse mix of assessment methods which ensure that specific students are not disadvantaged by specific forms of assessment, varying assessment activities has also helped develop a broader range of personal and employability skills. Student engagement is improved by using real life contexts in assessments which include analytical case studies and the writing of articles with current and relevant news associated with their area of specialism or topic choice. Staff will provide exemplar assessments, where appropriate, that allow students to visualise what the task is and independently or under direction to practise equivalent assessment tasks in advance of 'the real thing' and/or utilise these as formative tasks and discuss openly in taught sessions.

The use of an early, lower weighted assessment and feedback allows students and academic staff to identify areas for development and put in place support mechanisms to enable students to transition into Level 6 effectively. This early assessment is particularly important for direct-entry or non-Foundation Degree progressing students who need reassurance and guidance early in the programme.

A range of formative learning activities are included throughout the module teaching to enable students to assess their progress, areas of strength and further development needs. Draft tutorials are planned into the scheme of learning to discuss assessments in a full and detailed approach. Students typically receive written feedback on their draft submission, verbal feedback during their draft tutorial, and generic feedback of common themes identified during the draft tutorial period.

Summative coursework submissions are via Turnitin. This allows students the opportunity to submit their assessment and receive similarity report feedback, thereby enabling them to develop the integrity of their academic writing for final summative submission. Students are offered a range of practical assessment modes, potentially including the development of poster presentations, training videos or vlogs/blogs. Practical assessments are marked in the moment, but a Turnitin submission of a reference list or presentation slides enables all feedback to be given via Turnitin for a consistent assessment feedback experience.

All assessment briefs are internally moderated and available to External Examiners before they are distributed to students, and assessment marking is internally moderated in line with the UCSD policy before summative feedback is released to students. The annual programme monitoring alongside early/end of module reviews allow staff to monitor the success of assessment type against learning outcomes. Student involvement in programme and assessment reviews helps monitor inclusive practice. Assessment audits enable the team to carry out and share good practice. All assessments will be subject to a rigorous moderation process both internally, and where required by University regulations, externally. Assessments will be reviewed annually through Programme Monitoring with input from students via module reviews and programme level student data.

Feedback

Students will be given information in tutorial and each module about what types of formative, draft and summative feedback they will receive. Students are provided with verbal formative feedback throughout the teaching and learning experience, and written and verbal feedback on a draft submission. Draft feedback highlights how students can develop their work to meet the learning outcomes and improve their assessments. Summative feedback is digital through Turnitin. This encompasses narrative commentary through continuous prose, the use of Quickmarks to highlight positive work and areas for improvement, audio recorded feedback and a breakdown of marks allocated to different assessment marking criteria. The narrative comments highlight what the student did well, how they can improve their work and targets for them to work towards, including recommendations to seek support from the HE Study team.

The feedback process is clearly communicated to students as part of their induction and tutorial programme. It is explained that summative feedback is released 20-working days after summative submission date, with dates published in the Module Guides and on Turnitin. Occasionally, summative feedback is released early if it has been marked and moderated, and early release would support subsequent assessment. As there are two pieces of assessed work in a module, feedback from the first piece will be made available prior to the submission date for the subsequent piece(s). The teaching team will inform students of their processes and policies relating to feedback, and publicise the principles of feedback in the module guides. In exceptional circumstances, when summative feedback release is delayed, students will be told why and given a new due date.

Feedback quality is maintained through benchmarking and moderation processes within the section to ensure it is fit for purpose and appropriate. Staff awareness is raised through CPD, ensuring that levels of feedback are sustainable for staff to deliver and staff are actively sharing existing good practice. The teaching team will check that feedback is fit for purpose and that it enhances learning at module, programme and section level, as part of on-going annual review processes. This is specifically to ensure that feedback genuinely supports student learning. Monitoring of feedback will also take place to ascertain consistency of quality and appropriateness of type of feedback offered and mode of delivery.

1.12 Student engagement in ongoing programme development

UCSD sees students as partners in their academic process, we actively seek and respond to your feedback at several points within the year. You and your course peers will elect a Student Representative to represent your views at Student Consultative Forum three times a year. The Lead Student Rep, elected by the whole UCSD student body, chairs the Student Consultative Forum and works with the UCSD leadership team to act on student feedback. Additionally, a Higher Education Student Governor is nominated from the student body to represent your views in South Devon College's governance structures. Students are also asked to give early and end of module review feedback to improve module delivery, and surveys about their student satisfaction once a year. In addition, students can always discuss any concerns or areas of good practice with their personal tutor.

Below, we outline the recent feedback that has been received from students and how we have developed the programme in response to that feedback.

You said:	We did:
High number of independent study sessions for research module in 2021/22	From 2022/23 we re-organised the schedule to give four sets of two weeks of taught delivery to cover the four main elements of dissertation: ethics and proposal, literature review, research design and analysis. There was an all-day writing retreat at the end of semester one, and two half-day skills workshops to support with practical data collection and analysis skills. In weeks when no activity is planned, students are encouraged to use the time to meet with their supervisors. From 2023/24 we have further re-organised the schedule so that there is more regular research and dissertation teaching plus the writing retreats.
Direct-entry student need dissertation supervisors who are present for research module in 2021/22	We recognise that direct-entry students, who have had different research experiences at Level 5, need additional support with the dissertation. Therefore, this year we introduced two pre-induction sessions to support with getting set up and dissertation ideas, we have also introduced additional workshops, and the allocation of supervisors will take account of direct- entry students need for flexible and experienced supervisors.

Students found the one-day a week delivery too much and that tutorial and research were rushed at the beginning and end of the day in 2022/23	We agree one-day is very intense. As the feeder Foundation Degrees are now all taught on more than one-day a week we can move to a two-day a week delivery from 2023/24. This means one module plus tutorial or Research Dissertation each day for full-time students, enabling more research teaching too.
Part-time students struggling with three modules in year 1 and one module plus dissertation in year two in 2022/23 and previous years	Moving to two-days a week from 2023/24 enables us to spread out part-time teaching to one day and one module at a time. To do this we applied for minor changes to the Research Dissertation module to enable it to be delivered over two years. Therefore from 2023/24 new part-time students will do one module each of the four semesters plus Research Dissertation spread over two years.
Delivery of the new modules has been intense with lots of information to take in and assessments that are not always clear during 2022/23	As this is the first year of running these modules and assessments, we have all been learning as we go along. Students have helped to identify the topics and assessments that worked particularly well and these will be carried forward in subsequent years.

1.14 Becoming a South Devon Graduate

You have enrolled to undertake a qualification about a specific subject, but alongside this UCSD is committed to supporting you to secure higher-level academic knowledge and skills, possess positive personal attributes for your future, and be work-ready with professional knowledge, skills and behaviours. This is known as educational gain – everything you will develop alongside your academic qualification towards becoming a South Devon Graduate. To find out more, visit <https://www.ucsd.ac.uk/south-devon-graduate/>

Higher-level academic skills

Alongside excellent programme design, and outstanding teaching, learning and assessment on your course, tutors will help you to identify and address any gaps in your academic knowledge, skills and behaviours. This starts before your course begins with preparation activities online and in-person to help you develop foundational academic skills, the tutorial curriculum then scaffolds new and developing knowledge and skills with your peers throughout your course, and you can access one-to-one support from the UCSD Student Support Hub.

As a Level 6 student you will have already developed strong academic skills, but there is always room for improvement, and we want you to graduate with the highest degree classification you can. Employers often consider a grade of more than 60% (an upper second class, 2:1) a 'good' degree. Therefore, we will continue to re-visit core academic skills and improve studying and academic habits through the tutorial programme and module teaching. You will have an early assessment in Semester 1 designed to give you detailed developmental feedback on your Level 6 academic skills and sign post you to places you can get extra support.

Positive personal attributes for your future

South Devon Graduates have positive personal attributes, qualities and characteristics that mean they are confident, resilient and act with integrity. We nurture these attributes through our Ready, Respect and Safe agenda. Students are ready to learn with group and one-to-one support for academic skills, disability and wellbeing. UCSD and our students are encouraged to respect and care for themselves, others and the environment though initiatives related to equality and diversity, sustainability, academic integrity, and behaviour and conduct. Student and staff keep themselves and each other safe through pastoral support, knowledge of safeguarding and Prevent, online safety activities, and opportunities to report misconduct and bullying.

The BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies programme draws students together from a range of prior courses. During tutorial and your modules we will encourage participate in group work so that you can build a wider network of peers and experience, and enhance your confidence, resilience and integrity. The personal development and Ready, Respect and Safe agenda will be embedded throughout our tutorials and module teaching as they reflect the content, ethos and relationship-based approach of the programme and teaching team.

Work-ready

Your teaching team have designed a course to give you the knowledge and skills for a career in your chosen field. Beyond this you will become work-ready through work-based learning, placement activities and assessments that reflect the real world of work, a tutorial curriculum that inspires you to reflect on your growing employability and record them in your Personal Development Plan (PDP), and enrichment activities arranged by your programme team or the wider University Centre, such as Research Showcase.

As a Level 6 student many of you will be thinking about 'what next' alongside your assessments. The team have considerable experience supporting students into work or further study, and getting you ready for this next step. During tutorial and module teaching we will explore your strengths and values, and how you can use these to build a career plan. We will also investigate different roles and career paths with vacancies promoted on our Facebook group <https://www.facebook.com/groups/350017548962422>. You can also access support for personal statements and CV from the HE Employability team as well as through tutorial. See section 1.14 Preparation for employment and further academic study below for more details.

Throughout your studies at UCSD you will be working toward these academic, personal and work-ready knowledge, skills and behaviours making you a South Devon Graduate.

1.15 Preparation for employment and further academic study

Preparation for employment and personal development are central to the programme as it is the final year of undergraduate study. It is delivered as part of the module teaching and assessment, weekly tutorial, employability and enrichment activities, and UCSD opportunities. As much as practicable, these activities will be organised to enable students to work with students from across the University Centre, widening their social and professional network, and fostering a sense of belonging to UCSD and the University of Plymouth.

Module teaching and assessments contextualise professional, personal and employability development throughout the schemes of learning. For example, in the Compassionate Practitioners and Leaders module, students will be reflecting on their own professional practice and group work. In other modules, assessments will be authentic to enable students to develop behaviours and skills applicable to the education. Where appropriate, students will observe how their developing skills match professional standards, such as Teachers' Standards.

Weekly tutorials for BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies students take place following the UCSD Tutorial Curriculum, with a focus on advanced academic skills, personal development and employability. All students have the same personal tutor who leads weekly tutorials, supports the pastoral and academic development of students one-to-one, and facilitates employability and enrichment opportunities. Different post-graduate training, graduate employment and work and life experience opportunities will be introduced, explored and discussed throughout the academic year. The tutorial curriculum embeds advanced academic skills to meet the requirements of Level 6, whilst acting as booster session for students whose skills are still emerging. The booster sessions are particularly important for direct-entry students, and are supplemented by an enhanced tutorial package of online resources, referral to HE Study and one-to-one support from the personal tutor.

The personal tutor and teaching team will deliver a package of employability and enrichment activities for students. This may include exchange visits to different students' workplace settings; guest speakers; local, national and/or international visits to explore module and/or employability relevant sites; research dissemination opportunities; vocational training courses, e.g. Forest School, Mental Health First Aid; and acting as an advocate for the programme at open events, with employers or with students on other levels of study. As much as possible these activities will be co-ordinated to enable students to work with their peers from other Level 6 courses, and those studying the BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies Level 4/5 feeder programme.

UCSD also organises a range of professional development and employability opportunities that BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies students can engage in. These include CV writing or personal statement writing workshops or one-to-one support; advance academic skills support; contributing to UCSD as a Student Rep or Ambassador; support with wellbeing or disabilities needs; and exploration of local and national employment and study opportunities.

The teaching team work with employers through Torbay and south Devon, including those who are hosting students on Level 4 and Level 5 work-based learning placements. Employers are invited to our annual Research Showcase and student celebrations, to continuous professional development (CPD) events the team organise and we visit them both individually for our own CPD and with student groups. This enables us to maintain currency in our teaching and draw links from the academic theory to practice in the workplace. Module teaching and tutorial, and any work-based learning students do alongside their studies, will foster students' growing professional identities. As students will be entering a range of employment and further studies, sharing work experience and discussing how different sectors and occupations view topics will contribute to students' holistic understanding of childhood and youth issues.

2.4 Distinctive Features of the Programme and the Student Experience

Studying the BA \(Hons\) Childhood and Youth Studies programme will equip you with the knowledge, skills and behaviours to advance your career working with children and young people. You will bring your previous academic and work-related experience to the programme, and work collaboratively with your peers and the teaching team embedding a relationship-rich approach. Together we will extend your understanding and critical thinking about contemporary issues facing children and young people, and enable you to demonstrate your enhanced knowledge, skills and behaviour ready for future training or employment in the fields of education, social care, youth work or community support.

Most South Devon College students are embedded in the local community, having grown up locally and working or volunteering in the Torbay area. The majority of our students studying education or children and young people programmes intend to remain local and want to contribute to the lives of children and young people in the Torbay and wider South Devon area. Therefore, the BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies programme aims to equip students to do this, by providing a broad knowledge of contemporary and contextual local, national and international issues impacting on children and young people's lives.

2.4 The programme aims to equip you with the knowledge, skills and behaviours to progress into graduate employment and/or training in a range of education, social, youth and community settings. We have designed to programme mindful of Bronfenbrenner's (1979) ecosystems model with the child at the centre within concentric spheres of their interconnected lives. The programme brings a holistic perspective of childhood and youth, drawing on a range of disciplines including psychology, sociology, history, politics, education, social policy, philosophy and interdisciplinary studies. The teaching team have a range of public, private and voluntary sector experiences in the fields of education, police, social care, early years and international development, and bring this multi-disciplinary perspective to our teaching. The teaching team are all involved in further study and/or ongoing research and scholarship in a wide variety of relevant disciplines, and will bring this experience to their teaching and dissertation support.

2.5 The BA (Hons) Childhood and Youth Studies (top-up) is designed to be flexible and accommodating of a breadth of Level 4/5 experience. It is designed as the 'natural' top-up degree to the FdA Early Years Care and Education and FdA Teaching and Learning (UoP validated), the FdA Education and Childhood and FdA Working with Children, Young People and Families (SDC validated) and the Diploma in Education and Training (Pearson accredited) which are all delivered at UCSD. Thus, this is one-year full-time/two-years part-time programme which is enriched by the individual learning and work experience students bring and share within the classroom and their assessments.

2.6 With professional and employment connections within the local area and beyond, the teaching team will embed your learning experience in Torbay with reference to the contemporary and contextual local, national and international issues impacting on children and young people's lives. This will include social policy, political debates, social justice, and environmental sustainability issues. We will fulfil this through guest speakers, educational visits and trips, research investigations, conference attendance, and the sharing of students' and the teaching team's own work and research experience. Module teaching and tutorials, and any work-based learning you undertake alongside your studies, will foster your growing professional identity. As students will be entering a range of employment and further studies, sharing work experience and discussing how different sectors and occupations view topics will contribute to students' holistic understanding of childhood and youth issues.

2.7 The ethos of the programme is one of active learning with cooperation and collaboration. You will be expected to prepare for scheduled learning activities, attend and engage in group learning as co-researchers, and commit to consolidating your learning outside of the classroom in preparation for assessments. By working with us in this way, you will be able to shape your learning experience, develop their interest, and grow into a reflective and critical learner and professional.

2.8 A varied assessment schedule that allows students to demonstrate their knowledge and understanding is a distinctive aspect of the programme. Assessments are designed to be both inclusive and authentic. Inclusive assessments aims to 'tackle assessment at point of design – looking at all aspects, from the development of marking criteria to method and mode of feedback – to ensure the ways in which we assess do not exclude students' (Advance HE, 2020), Authentic assessments require 'students to use the same competencies, or combinations of knowledge, skills, and attitudes that they need to apply in the criterion situation in professional life' (Gulikers, Bastiaens, and Kirschner, 2004, p. 69). Thus, assessments will allow you to demonstrate your knowledge and understanding in a variety of modes related to your future professions.

2.9 The programme embeds a relationship-rich approach to support. Our expectation is that students and the teaching team support each other in a respectful, compassionate and empathetic manner, and that this approach is extended to students' professional lives. Tutorial is the central core of the programme, enabling you to develop your personal, academic and employability skills in a supportive, developmental, and aspirational manner, whilst being cared for and valued for your unique contribution to the programme.

2.10 Support to succeed in your studies. Your personal tutor's role is to support your personal and professional development, develop your academic skills, manage expectations, achieve positive student-staff communications, provide pastoral support and signposting, and monitor your wellbeing. They should be your first port of call for advice and/or direction for further support on academic or pastoral matters. Additionally, you can receive one-to-one support from the UCSD Student Support Hub. Students can ask for study skills, wellbeing, disability and employability support, and your personal tutor and/or module leaders might recommend you seek specific assistance for your studies. If you are joining the programme from a non-Foundation Degree or after a break in your learning, you will be invited to take part in an enhanced transition involving pre-induction sessions to familiarise yourself with UCSD systems and processes, to make connections with your tutor and other direct-entry students, and to get you started on your dissertation. Additional support for direct-entry students will be arranged by your tutor and the Student Support Hub throughout your studies.

Summary of Module Content

Utilising the 'exosystem' of Bronfenbrenner's (1979) Ecosystem model, this module will examine contemporary issues that influence childhood. It will examine how social conditions impacting children have changed, exploring how the 21st century child navigates a multiplicity of choice and threat, within emerging themes of technology, society, and community cohesion. There will be a critical exploration of the current view of childhood, ranging from the endangered to the autonomous child. This might include a rights-based approach, concepts of community, youth activism and engagement, and the increased visibility and acceptance of LGBTQ+. Current debate will be studied, assessing the consequence, and present views of 'difference', such as gender, race, social class, disability, sexual orientation, and students will develop an understanding of the impact of social inequalities.
